VOL. XIX. CHICAGO, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 21, 1866. NUMBER 290.

One column had left Monterey to march directly on Matamoras. A second was close to importance rumors from Monterey to Piedras Negras, where a third was to move on the Victoria and Tampico and Matamoras line. The intention was to strike the dissatisfied element in the Republicans simultaneously, to defeat and disperse them. The columns were to meet on the Rio Grande and the interior of the country, and to receive overwhelming reinforcements. Carranza were to be placed at suitable points on the various lines, so that communication could be kept up as well, the impenetrable hostility anticipated, under the country upon and beyond.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The United States Consul at Tehuan, Morlos, reports to the Department of State, January 8d, the position of the belligerents in that State as follows: The Consul is informed that hostilities have been waged alone the entire border of the State of Vera Cruz since the home of the Empire Maximilian proclamation, which has led to the massacre of those who have taken up arms. No quarter is given prisoners of war by either of the contending parties. The Consul informs the Department that in the late explorations he had discovered the ruins of two ancient cities, which have been for ages unnoticed and unknown since the days of the Conquest.

THE SOUTH AMERICAN WAR.

Two Great Hostile Armies Confronting Each Other—Prospect of a Desperate Battle.

NEW YORK, March 20.—The Herald's Rio Janeiro correspondence gives further particulars regarding the late war. The allies, it appears, have concentrated were making for the battle, which was indolent at the gates of the city. Lopez had collected some of the Brazilians, Argentines and Uruguayans, now in his service, and had with him 25,000 men, and considerable and efficient naval fleet, in the south bank of the Parana river, in the vicinity of Passo de la Patria, confronted on the north by the allies, who had concentrated their only South men. Before the attack of great strength, Lopez, it is supposed, will endeavor to cross the Parana in some section of the country, and thus avoid the necessity of a battle. The allies designed to soon attempt the passage of the river, and a desperate struggle was expected. They had also in contemplation a flank movement, and an attack on the Paraguayan rear. Parties of Paraguayans had crossed in boats over the river, burning and destroying. The allies, however, regarded the Paraguayans with small fear.

WASHINGTON, March 20.

The following interesting letter from Lieut. Col. Bennett, special Inspector of the Freedmen's Bureau for the States of Kentucky and Tennessee, was transmitted to Congress to-day by Maj. Gen. Howard:

To Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard, Commissioner Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands, War Department, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL:—In compliance with instructions received from your office, I have visited the counties of Bath and Montgomery, in this State, and respectfully report to the city of Lexington, Ky., to examine into the condition of affairs in those counties, and to state—

I have the honor to report that I visited Lexington and vicinity, and prosecuted my investigations for the purpose of ascertaining the facts in relation to the following method: In all cases of extreme cruelty to the freedmen I endeavored to obtain the most reliable evidence I could procure, taken under oath, and in addition to the testimony of the sufferers or prosecutors, and in reference to the economical, social and moral condition of the race, I have obtained information from the most reliable and intelligent citizens of the State.

From the depositions taken by me, and the information received from the citizens, I find that the following cases of cruelty and outrage, for reference, are a few of the many that have occurred in the State. An examination of the sworn evidences, or the affidavits of the witnesses, will fully sustain the charges contained in a limited district and period, as described in the following cases. The number of cases for which in no instance as developed by the testimony, is more than one chapter of crimes or outrages.

You will observe I have been able, in most instances, to give the names of the guilty parties; in many the names of the citizens, with dates and residence.

I have classified these outrages as follows:

1. Murder, by shooting, hanging, burning, beating and whipping of each; four of beating and whipping of each; four of beating and whipping of each; four of

THE CITY.

Sabbath Society.—During the absence of a quorum of the Board of the Police and Fire Commissioners, the Sabbath Society will meet for the transaction of the business of the Society at the usual hour and place on the "regular morning."

Accident.—William Abbott, recently a member of the City Detective Police, and since employed with the detective agency of William H. Tuttle & Co., on Saturday morning, on the sidewalk on Dearborn street, between Randolph and Lake streets, fell and broke his arm. He was taken to his home.

Fire Down Somewhere.—Jerome Fitch, the young man arrested by Detective Sherman, on Monday, for stealing a watch from Mr. Hoffman, at the Police Court, yesterday morning, waived examination, and after a hearing was committed to the county jail in default of $1,000 bail. The case appeared to be rather a novel one, and after a hearing was committed to the Criminal Court. An interesting development is expected. The question for debate will be:

Resolved, That the Police Commissioners for the Southern States shall be permitted to take seats in the upper house of the Illinois Legislature.

All orations will be delivered by Mr. J. S. Mosquito, selections from Dickens will be read by J. B. Cook.

Hair Stone.—The storm of yesterday visited Hyde Park and vicinity with especial violence. The hail stones fell of a size graphically described as equal to that of hen eggs. Two hundred panes of sash were broken in one greenhouse; the windows of the Hyde Park accommodation train were all broken in and the hail was piled so thick on the track as to cause the stoppage of the train. The hail seemed to come from the east, to west, in a belt of about a mile in width, taking Hyde Park in its way.

Alarmed Laborer of Fire.—May Chevy and Ellen Kenney, chambermaid in one of our hotels, were charged in the Police Court, yesterday afternoon, with the larceny of a set of furs worth $100, the property of Mrs. Collins, who resides at No. 30 Greenwich street. As both the prisoners were domestically under the influence of liquor, and the evidence was therefore confused, the case was continued until to-day, when the parties will be examined in relation to the matter.

Masonic Jewelry Association, W. D.—A party of prominent Masons of the West Division have formed themselves into a company under the name of the "We Chicago Masonic Benevolent Association," with capital of $100,000. The first half monthly of the gentlemen will be held at No. 10 Greenwich street. At both the principles were systematically under the influence of liquor, and the evidence was therefore confused, the case was continued until to-day, when the parties will be examined in relation to the matter.

Masonic Outrage.—A saloon keeper named Quigley, whose rum mill is located near the Union Rolling Mills, on the North Side, is charged by his wife with a most brutal and dastardly outrage upon the person of a girl twelve years of age, named Mary Ann Hartzler, a resident of Quigley's family. The facts of the case, as learned from those acquainted with the circumstances, are as follows: Mrs. Quigley, during the absence of her family on his visits and was accustomed to have his drinking done by the little girl above named. On the occasion referred to, she went off on Sunday night at the usual hours of Christian Elect, No. 307 West Lake street, at the conclusion of the festivities had some words with her husband, and left the house under the impression that he would follow her and pay her quietly. Mr. Elect insisted that if no dollars were a sufficient remuneration for the services rendered, he would be content with a dime. He then left the house and was followed by Quigley, who struck him a severe blow on the left arm near the shoulder, and then seized the little girl, who, as soon as she was arrested and locked up in the West Division station, was found to be so badly injured in the private parts as to render it necessary to call in the Police Court yesterday afternoon. Quigley, after being taken to the station-house, was released on bail to appear in the Police Court yesterday afternoon, to answer the charge, but failed to put in an appearance, and forfeited his bail in the sum of $500.

The Weather.—Symptoms of a decided change, quite a revolution in fact, have occurred in the character of the weather within the past two days, and the change is one which is not to be realized that the long, nine winter is at length passing away. The snow-storm of yesterday, accompanied by rain and hail, clearly indicates that the winter has at last intervals during the whole of yesterday. In the morning the ground was frozen, and the trees were covered with a heavy coating of ice. It is hoped with icicles in all kinds of fantastic and lovely shapes. The ground was also covered with snow, slightly, debased into a perfect deluge of rain. The hail stones fell incessantly around the walking, and the lighting flashes were of the most vivid and startling nature. I under these, through which it was a matter of no little difficulty to pick one's way, and at the wet weather was by everybody, the sudden change was one that afforded general delight. Good spirits may be guarded on the death-knell of old winter, and if it was, we shall all bid him a cordial farewell.

A Chinese Numismatic Curiosity.—

D. J. Lake, Esq., cashier of the Manufacturers' National Bank of this city, has secured from Rev. Charles Piper, a missionary of many years' residence in China under the auspices of the American Board, a complete set of Chinese cash, dating from 550 B. C. down to the present dynasty. Mr. Postlethwaite, who is now in the city, and intends shortly to return to China, is an eminent Chinese scholar, and has accurately classified these coins. We hundred in number, by the different dynasties, viz: Hia, Shang, Hing, Tartar, Mongolian and Jochin-China dynasties. The entire specimens, from the time of Confucius to the present, are in a fine state of preservation, some of them appearing as though they had been struck but a few years, while a portion, although the oldest, are in the best condition. Mr. Lake intends to present the collection to the Chicago Historical Society, as soon as he can find a suitable case for their preservation in safety.

Larceny of Clothing.—Some weeks since a young man, named William Ryan, who works at No. 307 West Lake street, left a pair of pants on his room. About the time the theft was committed, another young man, known as Tom Gaughney, also disappeared, and the suspicion of Ryan's apartment, that in fact was forgotten, as he was just about to leave the city. On Monday evening, however, Ryan, while inspecting a load of hay on the corner of Lake and Clinton street, encountered Campbell, also Scott, wearing the missing pantaloons. At the Police Court yesterday morning Ryan was charged with the larceny of the pants, and was required to give bail in the sum of $500 for his appearance before the Recorder's Court.

Matrimony and Knives.—A vivilight named John D. Voss, who had been employed to play at the theatre, left the city of on Sunday night at the house of Christian Elect, No. 307 West Lake street, at the conclusion of the festivities had some words with his employer, and left the house under the impression that he would follow her and pay her quietly. Mr. Elect insisted that if no dollars were a sufficient remuneration for the services rendered, he would be content with a dime. Young Men's Literary Society.—A regular meeting of the Association will be held, to-night in the Central Court room. An interesting discussion is expected. The question for debate will be:

Resolved, That the Police Commissioners for the Southern States shall be permitted to take seats in the upper house of the Illinois Legislature.

Dry Goods.—Those of our readers who are in search of really choice styles of goods, cheap, are advised of the opening of the new house of Partridge, Smith & Strader, on Michigan avenue, adjoining the Adams House. We have successfully vindicated the truth of the theory that there is not necessarily any connection between quality and price. Their stock of dress goods is distinguished for attractive and judging by the quantity they are selling, for cheapness. Their stock of shawls is also equally a very attractive stock, and dealers would do well to call and form a call. See their advertisement on first page.
